

"It's terrific! I have been using it for my own research work, but it's also great for teaching purposes..."

Professor Marc Trachtenberg, UCLA

"Macmillan's record will be evaluated and re-evaluated for decades; this project provides an essential tool for teachers and researchers."

Gillian Starck and Dr Michael Kandiah, Institute of Contemporary British History

Macmillan Online provides historians and political scientists with direct access to documents from the highest level of Government during the Macmillan Administration. With some 30,000 images of original documents, this project is an important source for world history as well as British politics.

Macmillan Online contains a wealth of information, with specific topics including:

- the aftermath of Suez and a new Middle East policy, 1957-1963
- the foundation of the EEC by the Treaty of Rome, 1957
- the 1957 Defence White Paper, a landmark in British defence policy
- the Wolfenden Report on Homosexuality and Prostitution, 1957
- West Indian Independence, 1958
- the Berlin Crisis, 1958-1961, including the building of the Berlin Wall
- the Antarctica Treaty of 1959
- the political and military situation in Laos and South East Asia, 1959-1963
- Independence for Cyprus and Malta, 1959-1963
- the launch of Britain's first nuclear submarine
- the 'Wind of Change' Speech, February 1960
- Independence for Nigeria, Sierra Leone,

Tanzania, Uganda, Kenya, Zambia, Malawi and Zanzibar

- the Sharpeville Massacre, March 1960, and apartheid in South Africa
- the Cuban Missile Crisis, October 1962
- the Commonwealth Immigration Act, 1962
- the Nassau Agreement of December 1962, and Macmillan's relations with President Kennedy
- the uprising in Brunei, 1962
- the Pilkington Report on Broadcasting, 1962
- de Gaulle's veto of Britain's application to join the EEC, January 1963
- the foundation of the Organisation of African Unity, 1963
- the Nuclear Test Ban Treaty, 1963
- the Profumo Scandal, June 1963

There is correspondence and records of discussions with many of the key figures of the era including Acheson, Adenauer, de Gaulle, Diefenbaker, Douglas-Home, Dulles, Eisenhower, Kennedy, Khrushchev, Macleod, Ormsby-Gore, Rusk, Sandys, Spaak, Welensky and Whitehead; and much material concerning Banda, Castro, Gizenga, Lee Kuan Yew, Kaunda, Kenyatta, Nasser, Nyerere, Phouma, Phoumi and Rahman.

At the centre of Macmillan Online is the complete coverage (nearly 12,000 pages) of the Cabinet Conclusions [Minutes] and Memoranda, including recently released material. These classes provide a distillation of the work of all the other departments of government, ranging in subject matter from agricultural policy and trade, to nuclear policy and issues of international diplomacy.

Macmillan Online also offers unique access to 165 files (over 16,000 pages) from the records of the Prime Minister's Private Office. These provide an important supplement to Cabinet Records and cover all aspects of policy making.

Document images can be searched, projected and printed with ease. Macmillan Online is ideal for teaching and for students who may otherwise be reluctant to work with original sources.
